

VoIP and Data Bundle

Windstream's advanced Voice over IP solutions provide a single network connection for your phone services and high-speed Internet. This allows your business to save money when compared to separate network connections for phone service and Internet.

Windstream's VoIP and Data Bundle expands your broadband solution through the dynamic exchange of voice and Internet. While conventional telecommunications require separate channels for voice and Internet, the VoIP and Data Bundle enables you to dynamically alternate between voice and Internet as your call volume needs dictate.

With the VoIP and Data Bundle, your business begins with a broadband connection and adds the voice and networking service you need up to 20 Mbps of bandwidth. You may also select from a collection of enhanced features designed to provide greater flexibility and more efficient communications service for your business.

Windstream's VoIP and Data Bundle couples new innovations with proven, reliable technology.
